SPOTLIGHT ON PD MEMBER DR. BRIAN DAILEY

by Rosanna Schaffer-Shaw

When I first met Brian Dailey he impressed me as jovial, friendly and very fun-loving. He always sports a smile and often spouts a genial jest, not exactly the stereotype of an emergency room doctor, which is his actual occupation. At the Professional Division Seminars I have attended I have found myself chatting with him principally because of our mutual interest in the healing and life enhancing properties of crystals and minerals, the bountiful and beautiful gifts of Our Mother Earth. Also he is very easy to talk with.

The following are Brian's answers to my questions. I started by asking him how he initially was drawn to TMI:

Some time ago I attended an Outreach Program guided by Dr. Joseph Gallenberger in Rochester, New York. I had an incredible experience that weekend and immediately signed up for Gateway and Guidelines back to back. Toward the end of Guidelines was having some grounding issues. Each morning I would forget a different item for the shower, like my razor, shaving cream, or soap. Not a big deal, but it was bugging me. It was my last night at TMI and one of the trainers suggested I make a checklist, so I would be certain to have everything I needed for my shower in the morning. Great advice, so I wrote out a detailed checklist and checked it several times before going to the shower. The checklist worked, until I turned the shower off and realized I forgot my towel, not on the list. I opened the door of the bathroom in the Nancy Penn Center and saw the entire hallway was clear. Great! I streaked naked down the hall as the entire hallway immediately filled with people, who noted this naked guy screaming down the hallway. My guide has a wicked sense of humor, and once again had set me up.

As you can plainly read even here Brian's sense of humor is apparent or should I say transparent? ;-) Now I must relate briefly, that during a Guidelines audio exercise at the Nancy Penn Center, I actually found myself in my underwear in one of the bathrooms. Once I realized I had no robe or other covering with me, I panicked and immediately snapped back into my underwear clad body in the CHEC. I had been having an OBE and didn't realize it! Has anyone else had a similar experience? Are you brave enough to relate it here? Remember this is a private blog and only PD members have access.

I asked Brian what sorts of things he had done at TMI:

I have loved being at TMI, and meeting so many wonderful people. I have been on the board of directors, and I will never forget our last board meeting with Laurie Monroe. There was Laurie Monroe, myself, George Griffith, Darlene Miller, and elected that day to the board, Skip Atwater. None of us were aware that Laurie would pass three days later, but we understood the urgency with which she wanted to continue the TMI legacy. Skip was an absolutely wonderful addition to the board. He had been director of research for a number of years, and would shortly become Acting Executive Director and mentor us in some challenging times, with great success. He was absolutely brilliant! I became a member of the Professional Division, the Board of Advisors, and the Dolphin Energy Club, shortly after joining TMI.

How do you view your participation in the Professional Division? What do you like about it?

I think the professional division is one of the best parts of TMI. It allows us to exchange ideas and learn from one another. Dr. Jon Holt has been a great resource regarding the use of Hemi-Sync® with depression, anxiety, and other issues. Dr. Phil Davidson developed an EEG application that Dr. Sergey Sorin and I can run on our laptops to monitor brain wave using Hemi-Sync® and SAM sound in a dedicated research room we have put together. We have 750 W seven channel surround sound system, and an electro-hydraulic massage table, crystal bowls and crystals, and an incredible painting by Patty Ray Avalon, a TMI trainer and talented artist. Patty Ray has the patience of a saint, and allowed me to participate in the first energy healing course at TMI. Dr. Albert Dahlberg is a longtime friend and an absolute genius on a wide range of subjects. He has given me suggestions on a wide range of subjects and has been enormously helpful. Another TMI genius is Dr. John McMichael, CEO of Beech tree laboratories. Dr. McMichael is a font of ingenuity and brilliance. His pharmaceutical firm is developing agents with little adverse effect and potentially great healing abilities. They have already obtained multiple patents and more are pending. His consultants are an amazing group. Of course Dr. Albert Dahlberg, Chairman of Genetics at Brown University, is a key player. It's the only pharmaceutical firm I am aware of that has used the remote viewer, Mr. Joseph McMoneagle, to determine the mechanism by which these substances worked. He determined it had to do with gene modulation and resonance, saving years of research time.

Raymon Grace is a dowser who determines the initial testing dose, which then we bracket logarithmically higher or lower. Raymon's initial starting dose has been the final correct dose in all the cases to date! I asked John McMichael where we just don't use Raymon's initial starting dose and skip the others. "That wouldn't be scientific", John said. John and his company have the potential to help millions of people in an inexpensive, cost-effective way. I am reminded of an incident a number of years ago when he had just developed an antiviral compound. I was taking care of a patient with AIDS, who had disseminated herpes zoster (shingles) over his entire body. I had him in the ICU on intravenous acyclovir for two weeks with no improvement. He would die shortly as we had no other alternatives. I contacted John about compassionate use, and he sent me the drug for free. The patient received one sublingual drop four times a day, and the lesions were dried up in three days. To the patient and me, it was a miracle. They have developed other products that can reduce scarring such as in burn patients, and a host of other exciting possibilities.

How are the TMI modalities influencing your current work?

Dr. Sergey Sorin and I started Samvit Wellness (www.samvitwellness.org) to apply holistic techniques to traditional medicine. We both attended this past professional division meeting. I have been teaching Reiki for more than 20 years. We recently developed a three-day Reiki course for Reiki I&II, and a four-day palliative care and Reiki course utilizing Hemi-Sync® and SAM sound. Participants loved it! The Hemi-Sync® exercises increased energy and intuitive insight greatly. Biofield imaging showed remarkable increases in energy compared to traditional Reiki alone. On the last day of the course Sergey and I invited some patients with medical problems. The Reiki group was not informed of this. Participants were to do their own assessments, and then try to help the person. One gentleman in particular had six cervical disc herniations (neck), and five of lumbar disc herniations (lower back). He had two prior major surgeries on both his neck and back. It was obvious from the limp in his left leg and his grimacing that he had some kind of severe problem. Six of our members assessed him, and then treated him. He had to get assistance removing his shoes and then getting him up on the massage table. 20 minutes later he was pain-free, got off the table unassisted, and then bent over and put on both shoes. He couldn't believe he was walking normally and pain free. Additionally, they have developed other products that can reduce scarring (e.g. burn patients), improve neuropathies, help with cardiac disease, diabetes, arthritis and a host of other exciting applications.

On a personal note:

My wife Margie and I recently celebrated our 29th anniversary. We celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary in Reykjavík, Iceland, while attending the Heal the Healers conference. We have two devious fur children named Mickey and Minnie (cats), who rule their fiefdom as Emperor and Empress.

Other News of PD Members:

Theresa Bullard has been published in a Deepak Chopra compilation called Brain, Mind, Cosmos: The Nature of Our Existence and the Universe. Theresa's chapter Bridging from the Mundane to the Conscious Universe, reveals how our Brain-Mind-Cosmos connections, here called "bridges", can be stimulated and strengthened in order to cause shifts in consciousness.

Diane Waybright has a brand-new book out from Hermes House Press THE BURPING BOTTLE DISCOURSES (or, How a Water Bottle Changed My Life). In THE BURPING BOTTLE DISCOURSES Diane Waybright shares with readers how her attention and imagination are captured by the strange and persistent behavior of her water bottle. Each time the bottle burps she connects with a rich creative source of inspiration from within. The advice and energetic support she receives via these discourses leads to a profound and transformative experience—minus the headaches. The book details her connections with TMI and the PD seminars.
